

What next? I can now eat my dinner without the phone ringing and a sales person being on the other line. Our home is a castle and private. I find it an intrusion of my time. I bank where I want have blocked the sharing of my accounts where possible and now they want to call me at home when I have blocked their calls. I work 40 hours a week as a reception and I find it extremely rude for a bank to have a computer generated call inform me my company is pre-qualified and/or health insurance provider's computer call and/or we are looking for qualified tradesmen....I can go on and these are nuisance calls and a real pain. Our phone number is on the list for a reason.....take the hint!
